

Introduction

Park Gate Primary School is a two form entry primary school in the Western Wards of Fareham. The school is located in a suburban area, with many young, professional families. The school community includes children with a wide range of educational, social and emotional needs.

Our school provides learning of the highest quality to support and develop the whole child.

In encouraging the inquisitive mind we develop resilience, curiosity, creativity and independence.

Through mutual trust and respect, we ensure success for all.

This statement has been agreed by all members of the school community as summarising our key aims. This information report gives the details of how these aims are achieved for our pupils with special educational needs or disability (SEND).

All children are individuals and we work to support each child at Park Gate to ensure that they are happy, contented and that their individual needs are met in order to ensure that we achieve the aims above. We promote a mutually supportive environment where strengths are shared and difficulties are supported in all aspects of our community.

Each section of this report gives details about different aspects of how all members of the school community work to support children with special educational needs. By answering a series of questions that are frequently asked by parents we hope to offer as much information about SEND provision as possible.

This report has been written by Mrs Sheena Briscoe, the inclusion manager, in consultation with parents, governors and staff.

There will inevitably be questions that remain unanswered. If you have any further queries please do not hesitate to contact the school. Details of how to do this are included at the end of this report.

How does the school know if a child needs extra help?

- We have close links with our pre-schools. During the transition period prior to a child starting school, our Early Years staff meet with staff from the pre-schools to share information about children who will be coming to Park Gate. This includes information about additional support and SEND where appropriate. This early identification and sharing of information ensures that all appropriate support is in place as a child starts school.
- Concerns about SEND may be raised at anytime during a child's education. These concerns may be raised by parents, staff, other professionals or the child themselves. Staff members continually monitor all aspects of educational achievement. Through this close monitoring any concerns in relation to educational progress are quickly identified and further actions agreed where appropriate.

What should I do if I think my child may have special educational needs?

- If you are concerned about your child for any reason during their time at Park Gate, we ask parents to speak to a member of staff. This may be the class teacher in the first instance, who may then suggest parents talk to the Inclusion Manager (sometimes known as the Special Educational Needs Coordinator (SENCo)).

How will Park Gate Primary support my child?

- If a child is identified as having special educational needs, their barriers to learning will be explored by the adults working with them and the SENCo. The class teacher will specify personal targets for the child and outline how the school and parents will provide support to help the child achieve these targets. In most cases these targets will be met through quality first teaching in the classroom, including the use of additional resources, adaptations and differentiation of tasks. In some cases a child may require additional support through specific interventions or programmes, working with a learning support assistant (LSA).
- The child's targets will be informed by any relevant reports from other educational and health professionals.
- At this point the child's name is recorded on the SEND register. This is a formal record of all the children at the school who have identified SEND.
- Occasionally a pupil may need more expert support from an outside agency such as the Educational Psychologist, Speech and Language Therapist etc. A referral will be made, with your consent and forwarded to the most appropriate agency. After a series of assessments, a programme of support is usually provided to the school and parents/carers.
- If a child requires a significant amount of additional support to allow them to access the curriculum as a school we may apply for an Education, Health and Care plan to support your child.

Who will explain all of this to me?

- Parents are involved in all aspects of the process. This close, working partnership between parents and the school is crucial to the success of all children.
- The class teacher will share the targets with you and discuss the level of support required to enable them to be met. The targets will be reviewed with parents each term, usually at parents evenings, but may be reviewed at any time during the school year as required. Parents will be kept informed about a child's progress by the class teacher.
- Parents are encouraged to share any concerns or queries they have with the class teacher as soon as they arise, rather than waiting for a formal review meeting.

What are the different SEND needs that the school have met/ are meeting?

The Special Needs Code of Practice sets out clear guidelines and support when identifying pupils with special educational needs.

Special Educational Needs provision can be considered under these four broad areas:

- cognition and learning; including specific learning difficulty
- social emotional and mental health
- Communication and Interaction; including speech, language and communication
Autistic Spectrum Disorder/Condition
- Physical, medical and sensory, including;
physical difficulty
hearing impairment
visual impairment
multi-sensory Impairment

At any given time the school may be active in supporting children with a range of the needs listed above.

How will you help me support my child?

- Parents are encouraged to come and talk to staff at anytime. The class teacher or inclusion manager will be able to offer support and advice on how you can help your child. This close working partnership is crucial to our aim of success for all.
- Supporting your child with their learning at home is one of the most important ways parents can be involved in school life. This may include completing homework, working on individual targets or involving your child in clubs and other social activities to support their development. Practical advice about ways parents can support the school's work at home is readily available. This will be tailored to meet each child's needs.
- If parents identify additional support requirements that the school cannot meet, they may be advised to seek support from other professionals such as the GP or other health specialists, other professionals from within the Children's Services Department (CSD) or other voluntary agencies.

How does the school adapt the curriculum and learning environment for children with SEND?

- The school curriculum is adapted to meet the needs of all children as individuals. This is often referred to as differentiation. This means that teachers plan tasks and activities that support and challenge all children, regardless of their needs.
- Most children with SEND have their needs met through quality first teaching in the classroom. Teachers at Park Gate are highly skilled at differentiating the curriculum to support the best academic progress possible.
- For some children, further adaptation may be required. This may include support in small groups or individual support. The curriculum may need to be adapted to accommodate particular individual needs to ensure a child is fully included.
- The school offers a wide range of extra-curricular activities as well as school visits and additional curriculum enrichment activities. These are all inclusive and we encourage all children to take part.

How is the decision made about what type of support my child will receive?

- Reference is made to parents and all professionals working with a child in order to identify what support will be appropriate.
- Every child's progress is tracked regularly and formally reviewed in progress meetings each term. During these progress meetings the inclusion manager liaises with the class staff to review progress and identify the type and level of support required for children with SEND.
- If a child has more severe or complex needs that the school does not have the expertise to support, with your agreement, referrals may be made to other appropriate agencies, eg; speech therapy, education psychology, primary behaviour support
- If a child requires a significant amount of additional support a transition Partnership Agreement (TPA) or an Educational Health Care (EHC) plan may be considered. These additional, formal procedures are used only where a child requires significant support which is often of a more complex nature.
- Transition Partnership agreements are drawn up by the school to list your child's strengths and difficulties and outlines a plan to address their personal targets. These plans are particularly useful when children who have significant additional needs but do not meet the threshold for an EHCP are transitioning between schools

- In order for your child to be granted an Education, health and care plan your child would need to meet the criteria set out in the Special Educational Needs code of practice. This would be considered following involvement with the school's link Educational Psychologist. The school would then make an application to the local authority via the EHCP Hub (an online application platform) so that learning plan required to support your child can be formally recognised in a statutory document – the Educational, Health and Care Plan. Once in place an Educational Health and Care plan can support your child's needs for as long as they need it, up to the age of 25 years. These EHCPs are reviewed annually to ensure that targets have been met and that the plan is still relevant to your child's ongoing needs

How does the school know how effective its provision is for children with SEND?

- The regular monitoring of educational achievement helps to inform any review of our SEND provision. The inclusion manager, headteacher and governors all take a role in monitoring the impact of SEND support within the school.
- Monitoring information is shared with governors in the form of:
 - Regular meetings between the inclusion manager and the SEND governor
 - Governor attendance at pupil progress meetings and other monitoring activities
 - Reports on pupil progress from members of the senior leadership team
 - External reports, written by inspectors and advisers

How will I know how effective the provision is for my child?

- If the SEND provision is effective parents should be able to see the progress their child is making as they support their child.
- The class teacher will share information formally about progress towards achieving the targets which have been set. However, more informal discussion will take place as required, either with the class teacher or inclusion manager.
- A child may be removed from the SEND register at anytime during their education. This will indicate that the child has made sufficient progress to be achieving at age-appropriate levels – they have 'caught up' with their peers.

What support will there be for my child's overall wellbeing?

- The class teacher has overall responsibility for the pastoral care of every child in the class and as such identifies and provides appropriate support within the classroom. They are particularly vigilant about the self-esteem and emotional resilience of the children with additional needs.
- The class teacher is the first point of contact for parents who may have concerns about their child's wellbeing.
- If a child requires further support beyond that offered within the classroom environment, the inclusion manager will identify the appropriate member of the pastoral team to provide this support.
- The pastoral team at Park Gate includes an Emotional Literacy Support Assistant (ELSA) who works under the direction of the inclusion manager to support any children who are vulnerable for any reason. They can support children through family issues, bereavement, anxiety and self-esteem issues, friendship difficulties and anger management concerns. The inclusion manager is also a qualified Framework for Enhanced Individual Pastoral Support (FEIPS) practitioner.

- Where appropriate additional support may be sought from the Behaviour Support Team, the school nursing team, health professionals or other professionals within the Children's Services Department.
- Bullying is not tolerated in any form, and is dealt with swiftly and effectively.

What support is there for behaviour, avoiding exclusion and increasing attendance?

- As a school, we have a very positive approach to all types of behaviour with a clear reward system that is followed by all staff and pupils.
- If your child presents challenging behaviours you would be invited into school to discuss the issues. An Individual Behaviour Management Plan (IBMP) is written to identify the specific behaviours, put relevant support in place and set targets which would be reviewed regularly. Further support may be sought from the Educational Psychologist or Primary Behaviour Support Services. The school and professional services will make every effort to reduce the risk of exclusion.
- The Admin Staff daily monitor attendance of every child. Lateness and absence are recorded and reported upon to the Head teacher. Good attendance is actively encouraged throughout the school.

What happens if my child needs regular medication?

- The school follows the Local Authority guidelines for administration of medicines and the policy is available on the school's website.
- If your child requires regular, prescribed medicine this can be given in school, once the appropriate permission has been given by parents.
- A medical register is kept for children with on-going medical conditions and individual care plans are written for children who may need emergency care.
- All staff members receive regular training and updates in relation to conditions and medication that are relevant to children at the school. This ensures that all staff are able to manage medical situations.
- Where a child has more complex medical needs, individual members of staff receive additional training from health care professionals to ensure the child's needs are met.

What training is provided for staff supporting children with SEND?

- The school's inclusion manager or SENCo is fully qualified and has 14 years experience in this role of supporting children with SEND. The inclusion manager oversees all training in relation to SEND by
 - identifying appropriate courses for staff to attend
 - sharing practice with other local schools
 - liaising with other professionals.
- Recent training for staff includes
 - Teams training to enable staff to set up and run sessions to support children in their learning, whilst at home during the pandemic.
 - Phonics training
 - Kinetic handwriting part 1 and 2
 - Speech and language programme support
 - Shape coding/narrative to support reading and writing
 - Clicker 7 – an ICT programme to support writing
 - Manual handling/ physiotherapy – programmes for individual children
 - Specific medical training
 - Emotional wellbeing and Attachment training.

- Update on VIPERS reading activities/intervention
- In addition to attending training courses we work very closely with any external agencies that we feel are relevant to individual children's needs with our school. This enables us to secure the most appropriate specialist expertise. These include;
 - Health professionals including GPs, school nursing, clinical psychologist, paediatricians, speech and language therapists, occupational therapists, physiotherapists.
 - Children's Services Department professionals including the Locality Team and social workers.
 - Educational professionals including the Specialist Teacher Advisory Service who work with children with physical disability, hearing or visual impairment; Communication and Language difficulty as well as the advisory services for augmented and assisted communication (AAC), offering ICT support.
 - Primary Behaviour Support Team.
 - Ethnic Minority and Traveller Achievement Service (EMTAS).
 - Other agencies such as Young Carers, Hampshire Autistic Society and Portsmouth Down's Syndrome Association (Footprints).
- We have also accessed training and support through the outreach service at Heathfield Special School and St Francis Special School.

How accessible is the school?

- The school is fully accessible. It is on one level and has level access at all entrances and exits. The building is fully accessible for wheelchair users. There are two large accessible toilets. Each is fitted with a rise and fall changing table and hoist. Toilets across the school have cubicles fitted with handrails. A disabled parking bay is situated at the front of the school, close to the main entrance.
- Class teachers respond appropriately to the needs of all of the children in their class, including children with physical difficulties. This may include
 - adjusting seating arrangements for children with visual or hearing impairments
 - offering adapted equipment and resources for children with physical needs such as supported seating, footstools, writing slopes, pencil grips.
- If a child with SEND also has English as an additional language we liaise with the Ethnic Minority and Traveller Achievement Service (EMTAS) who assist us in supporting families.

For further information, the school's accessibility plan is available on request.

How will my child be included in activities outside the classroom including school trips?

- Park Gate primary promotes involvement of all our learners in all aspects of the curriculum and school life including activities outside the classroom.
- Any off-site activity require a risk assessment to be completed to ensure the safety of all pupils.
- Where there are concerns for mobility and access, a personalised risk assessment is carried out to identify where reasonable adjustments can be made to meet any additional needs. If appropriate parents/carers are consulted and involved in planning these .

How does the school consult with parents?

- The school encourages all parents to be involved with the life of the school. We consult with parents on a regular basis. One of the key opportunities for this is through the Parents' Forum. Parents are involved in discussions about all key priorities for the school.
- The school regularly consults with parents in a formal way through use of a questionnaire, based on the Ofsted framework. Outcomes and key actions are shared with parents and discussed at the Parents' Forum.
- The close working relationship that we promote encourages parents to come and talk to staff whenever they feel they need to. This informal consultation is often the most effective.

How does the school consult with children with SEND?

- We encourage children to be independent in all aspects of life. This includes developing their confidence and ability to express their views on all aspects of school life.
- Class teachers work closely with all children to ensure that when appropriate, they are involved in decisions about their education.
- If your child has a TPA or an EHC plan their views will be sought as part of the review process.
- The school is currently part of a pilot scheme introducing 'Person centred Planning' meetings, which will ultimately become part of the planning and review process for children with additional needs.

How will my child be supported as they start or leave the school?

- We have close links with our pre-schools. During the transition period prior to a child starting school, our Early Years staff meet with staff from the pre-schools to share information about children who will be coming to Park Gate. This includes information about additional support and SEND where appropriate. This early identification and sharing of information ensures that all appropriate support is in place as a child starts school.
- We have an extensive induction programme for all children starting school. This includes meetings for parents, visits to school, a home visit and visits to pre-schools. Where a child has particular needs additional transition arrangements may be put in place. These will be designed to meet the individual needs of the child.
- For children who start school outside of the normal admission round, we will liaise initially with parents, while also consulting the child's previous school and seeking information from other agencies that are involved. Visits to school, identification of a 'buddy' in the class and identification key members of staff for support will be used where appropriate.
- The majority of children leave Park Gate when they are 11 years old. We liaise closely with the secondary schools that our children move on to. This includes meetings between the child's class teacher and secondary school staff. The inclusion manager meets with the SENCo from the receiving school to discuss in more detail the specific needs of children with SEND. If the child has an EHC plan the receiving school is invited to attend the annual review meeting prior to transition. If a child has complex needs but does not have an EHC plan a Transition Partnership Arrangement (TPA) may be written in consultation with parents. This will include details about the child's needs, support in place at Park Gate and support to be made available to the child as they start secondary school. A report is written and a review date agreed. Copies of the agreement are sent to parents and to the receiving secondary school.

How are the school's resources allocated and matched to the children with Special Educational Needs?

- The SEND budget is allocated each financial year, and through the governing body SEND finances are monitored and reviewed regularly. The money is used to provide additional support or resources dependent upon need, including the deployment of staff.
- The school pays for a Service Level Agreement with the Education Psychology Service. The level of the SLA is reviewed annually.

What do I do if I am not happy about the SEND provision for my child?

- We would encourage parents to come and talk to us about any concerns or problems that may arise. In almost all cases we will be able to resolve any issues quickly.
- If, following discussion with school staff, you are still unhappy and feel that the matter is unresolved, the school's complaints policy can be found on the school's website, or is available on request from the school office.
